SHORT BIO — 75 WORDS*Use for: Programs, introductions, podcast show notes

Mandy Walters, RDH, BSDH is a registered dental hygienist, speaker, and consultant based in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Through her company, Walters Consulting LLC, she offers OSHA compliance auditing, dental practice consulting, expanded function courses, and continuing education for dental teams. A Board Member of the Oklahoma Dental Hygienists' Association, Mandy speaks nationally on hygiene leadership, OSHA compliance, ergonomics, Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome awareness, and career development for dental professionals.

FULL BIO — 175 WORDS*Use for: Conference programs, speaker features, media profiles

Mandy Walters, RDH, BSDH is a dental industry leader, professional speaker, and practice consultant whose career spans every corner of the dental office — from front desk and dental assisting through clinical hygiene and practice leadership. She earned her Associate's degree at Tulsa Community College and her Bachelor's of Dental Hygiene from Eastern International College in New Jersey.

Mandy founded Walters Consulting LLC to bring practical, expert support directly to dental teams and practices nationwide. Her services include OSHA and HIPAA compliance auditing, hygiene department optimization, team training, clinical support, and expanded function courses. As a speaker, Mandy captivates dental audiences with her lively, bubbly presentation style and her gift for making complex topics genuinely accessible and engaging.

She serves on the Board of Directors for the Oklahoma Dental Hygienists' Association and is an education partner with LearnTodayDental.com (Brook Gibson). Her mission — her "Ministry in Dentistry" — blends clinical excellence with compassion and meaningful connection.

Mandy Walters, RDH

Registered Dental Hygienist | Speaker | Consultant | Educator | Advocate for Empathy in Dentistry

Mandy Walters, RDH is a dedicated Registered Dental Hygienist, speaker, and consultant with over a decade of clinical experience in the dental field. She began her career as a dental assistant in pediatrics and orthodontics before pursuing her education at Tulsa Community College. Mandy earned her Associate's degree before advancing to obtain her Bachelor's of Dental Hygiene from Eastern International College in New Jersey.

Throughout her career, Mandy has demonstrated a passion for leadership, professional growth, and elevating the dental profession. She was selected as one of the original hygienists to help launch and develop a rapidly expanding hygiene department within a growing dental organization, where she played an important role in supporting clinical excellence, team collaboration, and a culture centered on empathy and patient care.

Today, Mandy leads her own consulting company, where she works with dental practices and professionals to strengthen clinical systems, support compliance and infection control protocols, and empower dental teams through education and leadership development. Her work includes public speaking, practice consulting, hands-on clinical support, licensing and certification courses, and continuing education opportunities designed to help dental teams thrive in today's evolving healthcare environment. She also partners with industry organizations and brands through collaborations to bring holistic-minded resources and innovation to the dental community and patients.

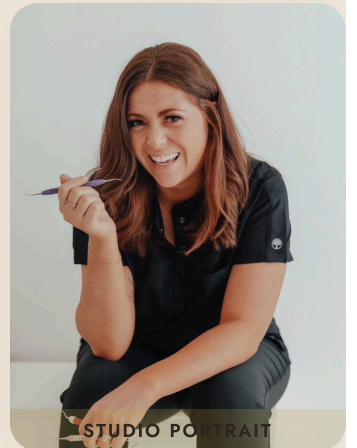

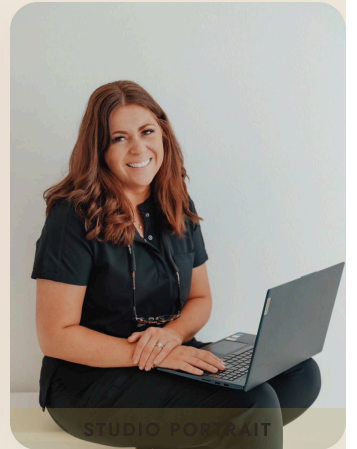

In addition to her consulting and speaking work, Mandy serves on the Board of Directors for the Oklahoma Dental Hygienists' Association, where she actively advocates for the advancement of the profession and supports initiatives focused on education, outreach, and professional development.

Mandy is deeply committed to what she calls her "Ministry in Dentistry," a philosophy that blends clinical excellence with compassion, service, and meaningful connection with patients and colleagues alike. When she's not speaking, consulting, or supporting dental teams, Mandy enjoys traveling and spending time with her husband, Ben, their son, Bennett, and their Australian Shepherd, Rocky Bear.
